

MAAGNYETA KODJO

Analyst defense & security, project manager & communication

Hello,

I am pleased to submit my application hoping that in case I get the job, I will be able to put my dynamic, organized, creative, and team-oriented personality at your service.

Indeed, through my background with institutions, NGOs and agencies, I have developed flexibility and adaptability. I have acquired extensive experience in communication/public relations, monitoring, analysis, and drafting. My project management skills taught me to organize, prioritize, manage teams and meet deadlines.

Throughout my young career, I have been involved in contracting, monitoring, and negotiating to implement different strategies and thus create a significant impact on the different projects I have been part of. But also to analyze the results and produce feedback.

Being bilingual, working internationally has taught me a sense of reactivity and an open-mindedness essential for this job. My CV will allow an overview of my overall skills and put them into perspective with the missions of this position.

I hope that my profile will be retained for this job or any other you will consider more suitable, and I am at your disposal to further discuss and explain my motivations.

Sincerely,

Maagnyeta Kodjo.
